CITIZENS TO BE HEARD

Mayor Chastain noted the following rules of decorum: During Citizens to be Heard, speakers shall only make comments that are relevant to the business and government of the City of Thomasville and that are related to public officials and City employees in their official capacities. Each speaker shall refrain from threats of violence and profanity. Citizens following the sign-in procedure listed on the sign-in sheet will be allowed three (3) minutes to address Council during Council Meeting. Mayor Chastain then acknowledged the following citizens listed on the Citizens to be Heard Sign-In Form:

1. Margaret Keister, resident of Cogar Avenue, Thomasville, Georgia, voiced concerns regarding the safety of residents who are leaving or entering the streets that are located behind Publix. There are no traffic lights on Pinetree Boulevard behind Publix, resulting in dangerous situations for vehicles and pedestrians, most notably at the Whitehurst Street entrance and exit.
2. Anne Pridgen, spoke to Council on behalf of Fountain of Life Rescue Shelter, as its Treasurer. She noted that Fountain of Life Rescue Shelter is the only emergency shelter for those experiencing homelessness in the Thomasville area that provides refuge from the night for Men and Women facing various types of circumstances. The Shelter opens its doors during hot and cold weather events. The Shelter is an important resource for first responders in the area. She noted that the last evening, there were 12 beds filled, and homelessness is a community issue. The Shelter is currently funded by individuals, local organizations and churches in the area. It was noted that the Shelter is typically closed on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.
3. Candee Henderson, Resident of Egg and Butter Road South, Thomas County, Georgia, spoke to Council regarding her mission for Thomasville and Thomas County to have 100% renewably sourced energy by 2035. She offered her continuation of the story she brought to Council previously about two households in the area that are seeking ways to reduce their power bills. One household reduced their power bill by utilizing resources for On Bill Financing of energy efficient appliances and upgrading the home. The other household, who had installed a solar array was assessed with a tariff from the utility company and is required to pay approximately $45.00 monthly. She noted that there is not a law that requires the utility company to assess a tariff on solar array installations. She requested that Council consider the removal of the tariff.

4. Shirlee Kervin, resident of Clay Street, Thomasville, Georgia, voiced concerns regarding the ill-kept vacant lot/rail yard on the corner of Clay and Short Streets where a recent homicide took place. She inquired if there was any movement in getting the area cleaned up and installing additional street lighting in the area.
    a. It was reported that the lot in question was owned by CSX, and the owner has been notified. City Manager White noted that the lighting concerns in the area would be reviewed and assessed for correction.

Consider three separate ordinances for properties to be rezoned in the Traditional Neighborhood Infill Zoning District (TNID).

City Planner, Kenny Thompson reported that Last year, the City adopted the Traditional Neighborhoods Infill District (TNID), a voluntary zoning option that supports new housing and reinvestment in the City's traditional neighborhoods. The TNID follows the goals of the Blueprint Comprehensive Plan and helps provide more attainable housing while protecting neighborhood character. The TNID allows housing types that current zoning often does not, such as smaller lots, cottages, and house-scaled multi-unit buildings. These are the same patterns that shaped Thomasville's historic neighborhoods and help bring new life to vacant and underused properties. Three properties within the Traditional Neighborhood Boundary are requesting rezoning to the TNID. This reflects growing interest from property owners in reinvesting in these neighborhoods. The TNID is voluntary and requires approval by the Planning and Zoning Commission and City Council before development can proceed. Once rezoned, all TNID development and design standards apply. Key features of the TNID include:

- Limited Eligibility: Only properties inside the Traditional Neighborhood Boundary may apply.
- Neighborhood-Based Standards: Development rules are designed to match the scale and form of existing neighborhoods.
- Design Requirements: The TNID includes clear design standards to protect neighborhood character while allowing flexibility in housing types.
- Review and Compliance: All projects are reviewed at permitting to ensure the standards are met.

City Planner Thompson reported that staff reviewed all three requests and found them eligible and consistent with the TNID and the Blueprint Comprehensive Plan. The proposed rezonings support reinvestment, expand housing options, and strengthen the long-term health of Thomasville's traditional neighborhoods. It was noted that the requested rezonings were unanimously recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Director of Public Works, Stephen Stewart, reported that the City is responsible for maintaining its buildings, public facilities, and other properties in a clean, safe, and suitable condition for employees, residents, visitors, and service users. Pest activity, including rodents, insects, termites, and other pests, can create health and sanitation concerns, damage buildings and equipment, and negatively affect the condition and usability of City facilities. A structured pest control service will allow the City to address existing pest concerns and establish a preventative treatment program designed to reduce the likelihood of recurring infestations. A five-member committee was formed, which included staff members who manage the maintenance needs of various City of Thomasville buildings, to evaluate RFPs received and stated performances of the proposals. Following a thorough evaluation, the committee recommends the annual contract be awarded to Adams Exterminating. A summary of bids received follows.
